

Biotechnology and genetic engineering

Biotechnology: the use of science and engineering together with biological agents to provide industrial products and services.

Genetic engineering: all modern molecular biology techniques used to isolate, manipulate and transfer genes from one organism to another in order to create novel traits in plants, animals, bacteria and fungi.

Retrieved from

"https://worldfoodsafetyalmanac.bfr.berlin/index.php?title=Biotechnology_and_genetic_engineering&oldid=4764"

This page was last edited on 22 February 2022, at 10:21 from Young.