Click on the globe to open an interactive map and access the country profiles. The World Food Safety Almanac provides a comprehensive overview of the administrative structures and governmental institutions that ensure food and feed safety within Europe and beyond, focussing on the assessment of health risks. Each country has a different approach in regard to food safety. Institutions and responsibilities vary, and in many countries new institutions have been set up in recent years. Every country profile will give you an overview of its legal framework and institutional structure along with detailed information about the institutions and their responsibilities.
